SPEAKER BIOGRAPHY

Rina Goldenberg Lynch, Founder & CEO of Gender Parity Advocate, Founder & CEO, Voice At The Table Ltd, London

Rina has 20 years of experience as a lawyer. Having started her legal career in Washington DC, she then worked as a banking lawyer with Clifford Chance LLP in London and as a Director in the legal department of ING Bank London.

Later in her career, having encountered obstacles to her desire to fully contribute to the success of the company by which she was employed, Rina developed a passion for helping other women attain sustainable career satisfaction by being able to contribute fully, and for that contribution to be valued and turned into a useful resource for the business. This was the catalyst behind Voice At The Table.

The consultancy helps organisations develop work cultures that are based on respect and appreciation of individual differences. Rina talks passionately on this topic and contributes to the advancement of women by speaking to audiences across the private and public sectors, as well as schools and non-profit organisations. She co-chairs the London chapter of the Professional Women's Network and is frequently asked to judge awards events honouring women's professional achievements.
